FOUNDER'S PORTFOLIO

Dangeti Jnana Kushal

Founder, WebbHeads | Entrepreneur

From an early e-commerce experiment to building a marketing and technology agency, my journey has been shaped by practical execution, learning from setbacks, and helping businesses build their digital presence.

CURRENT FOCUS

Building WebbHeads into a business that connects digital strategy, content, websites, and technology.

PURPOSE

A concise introduction to my entrepreneurial journey, experience, and ambitions — shared in the spirit of learning from an experienced business leader.

B.Tech Graduate • Founder-led agency • Sales, marketing & digital execution

webbheads.com

01 / THE JOURNEY

Profile & entrepreneurial journey

I am a B.Tech graduate and entrepreneur, and the founder of WebbHeads, a marketing and technology agency. My work sits at the intersection of business, technology, digital marketing, and customer behaviour. I have learned by trying different business models, working in sales environments, collaborating with a team, and delivering digital projects for businesses across several industries.

The path so far

01 Elixir.store — e-commerce experiment

Launched during my first year of B.Tech, selling printed T-shirts through a dropshipping model. The store generated approximately ₹17,000 in sales revenue. Frequent returns and my limited understanding of return policies, payment terms, and operational controls made the model difficult to sustain. It was an early lesson in unit economics and operational discipline.

02 Mydiyas.com — first service-business phase

Moved from selling products to providing services to businesses, initially with a marketing-agency focus. This phase introduced me to client requirements, project delivery, and team collaboration. The brand later changed as I worked to establish a clearer independent identity.

03 WebbHeads — marketing + technology

Developed the venture into a marketing and technology agency, combining website projects with content and digital marketing services. WebbHeads is the current platform through which I work with businesses on their digital presence and growth objectives.

What the early ventures taught me

- A business model needs operational controls, not just a product and a sales channel.
- Customer acquisition and customer experience are connected; returns, fulfilment, and policies affect the economics.
- A service business depends on trust, clear scope, consistent delivery, and communication.
- A venture can evolve as the founder gains experience and a clearer understanding of the market.

02 / SALES TO EXECUTION

Experience & capabilities

Alongside building my own ventures, I completed three internships that exposed me to different parts of the sales and marketing process. These experiences helped me connect customer conversations with digital acquisition and business outcomes.

Matrix Services

Focus: B2B sales

Worked on direct B2B sales, gaining exposure to business outreach, customer communication, and selling to organisations.

Website / product reference

Sunrise Group

Focus: Real estate sales

Worked with real estate clients in a direct-sales context, learning about customer conversations and the importance of trust in property-related decisions.

Wrogx

Focus: Online sales / digital marketing

Worked on online sales through digital marketing. I also sold 9 units of a Wrogx Spin 100 stationary exercise bike.

Website / product reference

Capabilities developed through practice

Capability	Practical exposure
Business development & sales	B2B outreach, direct customer conversations, and understanding buyer needs.
Digital marketing	Content-led audience growth and online sales exposure.
Website projects	Experience coordinating and delivering website work across different sectors.
Client communication	Translating business requirements into practical deliverables.
Entrepreneurial execution	Testing ideas, adapting after setbacks, and learning through real projects.

03 / BUILDING DIGITAL PRESENCE

WebbHeads & selected work

WebbHeads is my current marketing and technology venture. It helps businesses establish and improve their digital presence through website design and development, content creation, social media marketing, and related digital solutions.

Core service areas

- Website design and development: Business websites, landing pages, and e-commerce experiences.
- Content creation: Short-form video, brand storytelling, and social content.
- Social media marketing: Content planning, audience development, and consistent brand communication.
- Digital growth: Connecting online visibility with customer enquiries and sales objectives.
- Technology-led solutions: Exploring automation and digital workflows where they fit a client's needs.

Selected client and project work

Avani Organics

Organic food products

Content creation and social media support. The engagement has focused on audience growth, product education, and directing interested customers to social and website channels.

View online

Prahari Realty

Real estate · Hyderabad

An ongoing, early-stage engagement focused on social media brand development and educational content around real estate, property decisions, and customer trust.

View online

Website projects across industries

Chess education, organic food, carbon-related products, yoga, and real estate

I have worked on more than five website projects, including two chess-related projects, one organic food business, one carbon-related products company, one yoga instruction project, and two real estate projects.

View online

Matrix Services

Internship / business exposure

An internship experience in B2B sales; included here as part of my professional development rather than as a WebbHeads client project.

View online

04 / LEARNING THROUGH RESULTS

Client case study & next chapter

Avani Organics — content and audience growth

Avani Organics is an organic food products business for which WebbHeads provides content creation and social media support. The work has included product-focused and educational content designed to help audiences discover the brand and its products.

200K+	750 → 4,300+
Views reported for a high-performing reel	Reported Instagram follower growth over approximately three months

Commercial context: I have also observed sales coming through social media and the website during the engagement. I am not presenting a specific revenue figure because I do not have a verified amount included here.

Evidence note: The performance figures in this portfolio are based on the information available to me and should be read as reported results. Instagram Insights screenshots or analytics exports can be supplied to verify the exact reach, views, follower change, and reporting period.

Prahari Realty — current focus

This is an ongoing, early-stage engagement. The current emphasis is on building a consistent digital identity and creating educational content that helps prospective buyers and investors understand real estate topics. I am not claiming quantified performance results for this engagement at this stage.

What I hope to learn next

I am sharing this portfolio to introduce myself and seek mentorship from someone with experience in building and scaling a business. I would value guidance on prioritising opportunities, building a stronger operating system, developing sales capability, and making better long-term decisions as I grow WebbHeads.

> I know I am still early in the journey. My aim is to keep learning through execution, build with discipline, and create businesses that solve real problems and deliver lasting value.

Selected links

WebbHeads — company website

Avani Organics — client website

Prahari Realty — client website

Matrix Services — internship organisation

Wrogx product reference